Providing Free and Accessible Period Products in City-Owned Restrooms in the City of Toledo, waiving competitive bid requirements of Chapter 187 of the Toledo Municipal Code, and declaring an emergency.

Body: SUMMARY & BACKGROUND:

Establishing a pilot program to make menstruation products free and accessible in restrooms in government buildings, neighborhood parks, community centers, and other community partner buildings; and authorizing the purchase by one or more standard purchase and requirement contracts of feminine hygiene products from Aunt Flow for the Department of Public Service; and waiving the competitive bidding process.

WHEREAS, the City of Toledo seeks to implement a pilot program to make period products free and accessible with dignity in restrooms in government buildings, neighborhood parks, and other community partner buildings throughout Toledo's neighborhoods; and

WHEREAS, toilet paper and other sanitary products are universally expected, while feminine hygiene products like tampons and pads are rarely provided despite being medically necessary for people during menstruation; and

WHEREAS, vulnerable populations who face barriers to menstrual health, including low-income people, school-aged students, homeless or incarcerated people, and people experiencing cycle irregularity, are especially affected by lack of access to free menstrual products; and

WHEREAS, making these products accessible and free in public buildings is important considering the financial burdens on people who menstruate; on average, one menstruator spends $13.25 each month on menstrual products, totaling about $6,360 in her reproductive lifetime; and

WHEREAS, in a widely cited St. Louis study of low-income menstruators, 64 percent of respondents did not have the money to buy feminine hygiene products in the past year and 46 percent of respondents were not able to afford both food and feminine hygiene products in the past year; and

WHEREAS, unexpected menstruation disrupts that person's day if hygiene products are not available; a national study by Free the Tampons, a Columbus-based nonprofit that aims to end restroom inequality, found that 86 percent of menstruators have started their periods while out in public without the supplies they need, and 79 percent end up creating makeshift and poor substitutes out of toilet paper when products are unavailable; and

WHEREAS, access to menstrual products prevents infection caused by inadequate access to or overuse of singular products, lessening the overall burden on the healthcare system; and

WHEREAS, access to feminine hygiene products has been shown to improve the lives of young people during menstruation by increasing school attendance, reducing stigma, and increasing their confidence; and

WHEREAS, other cities, including Cleveland, Columbus, New York City, West Lafayette, Indiana, and Salt Lake City, Utah, provide free feminine hygiene products in city-owned buildings in order to reduce barriers in accessing products; and

WHEREAS, the City of Toledo seeks to implement a program to provide free feminine hygiene products with dignity in restrooms in government buildings, parks, and other community partner spaces to ensure menstrual equity, meaning that menstruation does not lead to financial, social, and safety burdens; and

WHEREAS, this Council encourages other public entities and businesses to offer feminine hygiene products at no cost in their restrooms, many of which do currently exist in Toledo.

Authorizing the appropriation and expenditure of an amount not to exceed $7,574,152 from the Local Fiscal Recovery Fund for clean-up, demolition and redevelopment of brownfield sites; authorizing the Mayor to enter into an amended agreement with the Lucas County Land Bank for said purpose; and declaring an emergency.

Body: SUMMARY & BACKGROUND:

The City of Toledo has been allocated $180.9 million through the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) to address the public health and economic challenges caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. As part of the Toledo Recovery Plan, established under Ordinance 530-21, $6 million was initially allocated for the clean-up, demolition, and redevelopment of brownfield sites. Subsequently, Ordinance 605-22 authorized the appropriation and expenditure of $3,722,078 to the Lucas County Land Bank for these efforts on five sites.

With the State of Ohio's unprecedented investment in the Ohio Brownfield Remediation Program and the Ohio Building and Site Revitalization Program, the City amended its Toledo Recovery Plan under Ordinance 444-23. This amendment reallocated $5,296,230 in ARPA funds to support brownfield redevelopment as matching funds for the City's grant applications to these state programs.

The City and the Lucas County Land Bank recognize the importance of collaboration to address environmental issues, protect public health and safety, and create new development opportunities. This partnership was formally strengthened through the First Amendment to the Memorandum of Understanding, which highlights brownfield remediation as a key area of collaboration. Together, the City and the Land Bank have applied for several state grant programs aimed at transforming some of the most blighted buildings and under-utilized sites. So far, the Land Bank has secured $11,547,437 in state grants for eight significant brownfield redevelopment projects, all of which require a local funding match.

This ordinance seeks to authorize the appropriation and expenditure of up to $7,574,152 in ARPA funding to the Lucas County Land Bank to support the clean-up, demolition, and redevelopment of eight key brownfield sites. Attached are detailed documents outlining the proposed investment and timeline for these transformative projects.
